Getting the most from your team is important all the time; but when the economy is weak, it's even more critical. You can't solve talent problems by throwing.

As a leader, the most important part of your job isn't your results. Your job is to inspire your employees' results. Here's how. You can't become a great leader if people are unwilling to follow. If you're the boss, you can get away with this attitude to a certain involuntary followership based on your organizational hierarchy. To actually lead most effectively and successfully, they need to attract people. Having the discipline to invest in employees is critical, but here's why – Most companies by default are net importers of talent, and as such, Employees need a fundamental mindset that they need to get better at their job. Best to look for fair constructive resolutions, not simply getting your way. Some of the most brilliant people I managed were very difficult.

Stop treating your schmoozing like a business card collection that most could identify 25 or perhaps 30 relationships that had made all It's a lot easier to get to know someone and form a connection early in that person's.

6. In order to get, you have to give. If you support, guide, and lead others, if you make contributions to their lives, you will reap the best rewards.
